ABSTRACT

This classified subject index provides access to articles and illustrations appearing in the National Geographic Magazine over a period of 67 years. Detailed topics are grouped under broader alphabetical headings, and people are listed only as featured subjects of articles. See and see also references are included. The introduction explains the citation arrangement and coverage and provides a list of subject headings used. Alphabetical listings of cities having aerial views, separate breeds of dogs, and types of fish are appended. (RBF)

EXPLANATION

This index has been cumulated every two years in a complete revision since 1955, to enable librarians, teachers and others to locate in a single alphabetical listing all the incomparable educational and pictorial wealth to be found in the National Geographic Magazine in any year likely to be requested, providing at the same time a quick means of selecting the most useful articles in order of preference up to the last December of odd-numbered years.

From its first edition of six mimeographed pages it has grown to about 76 pages with at least 12 times its original content, and the period covered has grown from 20 years to 67. Even with all the additional detail on the illustrations the original aim remains of locating material easily and in preferential order: the articles with broader coverage are still first under each heading.

The second edition of 1956 expanded the subject coverage far beyond the regional headings. The entries now include (with many subheadings):

Agriculture	Eskimos	Mammals, Extinct	Science
Anthropology	Ethnology	Medicine & Health	Ships
Archaeology	Explorers	Microorganisms	Space Travel
Architecture	Festivals, &c	Minerals	Sports &
Art	Fishes, &c	Models, &c	Recreation
Arts & Crafts	Flags & Insignia	Molluscs	Technology,
Astronomy	Fossils	Mushrooms	Historical
Aviation	History (World)	Music &	Transportation
Biography (and by name)	History, Modern	Instruments	Underwater
Biology	Indians,	Mycetozoa	Salvage
Birds	No. American	National	U.S. Armed Forces
Bridges & Tunnels	Indians,	Geog Soc.	U.S. Government
Canals	So. American	Numismatics	Services
Cities	Industry	Photography	U.S. History
Conservation	Insects	Physical	U.S. National Parks
Costume	Institutions	Geography	Voyages
Dinosaurs	Jewelry	Plants	Weapons
Dogs	Language	Pollution	Wildlife
Ecology	Libraries	Religious	Woman
Education	Literature	Ceremonies	World (Intercontinental)
	Mammals	Reptiles & Amphibians	Writing

TYPE OF INDEX. The Handy Key is not a dictionary or telephone directory. Apart from the standard names of countries, it is purely a "subject guide" or "classified index," which means that detailed topics are grouped under broader subjects. For example, Vesuvius will not be listed under its own name, but in the category of Volcanoes, which in turn is a subheading of the broader field of Physical Geography. This enables us (1) to eliminate the thousands of detailed entries and cross-references which would otherwise form a bulky volume, and (2) to aid the reader by grouping all related topics together (for example, to find volcanoes quickly in any part of the world, rather than checking each one by name through the whole Key, which would require the reader to prepare a separate list first).

Of course, this procedure demands some thought on the user's part and some familiarity with the broader subject-headings used in the Key, since each person's ideas of logical groupings and acceptable subject-headings will vary. For this reason our major entries are listed above, and all the Industry and United States subheads are given at the heads of these entries, along with the "see also" references (see below).

This is not a title or author index at all, and includes people only as featured subjects of articles. Some names are given to help identify expeditions, research work, etc., but only parenthetically, not as part of the alphabetical arrangement.

"SEE ALSO" REFERENCES have been liberally inserted, partly to suggest related headings in the form used in the Key, partly to save space which would be wasted by repeating the same citations under several headings, and partly to compensate for the lack of thousands of more specific subject headings with all their sub-chains of cross-references. As the Key has grown in bulk, the citations repeated for convenience under more than one entry have had to be virtually eliminated, thus making it more important than ever for the user to consider carefully all the "see also" references. These have been given at the beginning rather than at the end of entries to enable users to avoid searching through a whole entry only to find that the special aspect they want is treated elsewhere. Under Industry: Fishing, for example, "see also's" will indicate related entries for individual species of fish and for sport fishing.

ARRANGEMENT OF CITATIONS. Under each heading or subheading the order of citations is seldom alphabetical as it is in the Dogs or Cities - Aerial Views entry. Rather the citations in each entry are grouped by a classification system, with related topics together. One common scheme is the geographical (by region), and here the order normally followed is from west to east and from north to south, beginning with the United States, then Canada; in brief: North and South America - Europe - Asia - Africa - Australia and the Pacific. Examples are found in the Festivals and the Physical Geography: Volcanoes entries. Other arrangements are chronological, as in the Writing, Ships, Explorers, and the many History entries; or functional (by types), as in the Aviation, Mammals, and Medicine entries. In addition to these more obvious schemes, many longer paragraphs have been broken into shorter ones, where the sections may not justify a subheading, but where natural groupings exist in some form.

PREFERENTIAL ORDER. Under each heading (especially the regional) priority is given to the most general and of these to the best illustrated and the most recent. Following the general articles are those on more limited areas or aspects of the entry topic (such as a city), qualified by a word or two.

As with any index, the user will find that many references (particularly the regional) give much fuller treatment than others, such as those to institutions, industries, physical geography, etc. The first reference under U.S. Massachusetts, for example, consists of a date only, but this refers to an entire major article, whereas the identification of a single picture of an industry or craft in the state might require a whole line later in the entry. A citation marked "feat" or "f" (feature) indicates that the topic mentioned is the principal subject of the article. However, it is used chiefly in cases where a feature article could not be expected or assumed, particularly in non-regional topics, such as industrial or biological. Also, it is a recent innovation, and users are cautioned that its absence should never be taken to mean that the subject is not featured. It is simply a confirmation of a feature article.

LOCATING CITATIONS. The basic treatment of the Geographic is by region. Citations here are usually to entire articles. In other entries, such as Industry or Sports, citations may be to parts of articles or to one picture only, and may require a little searching in the issue cited. However, the country or state is almost always named in the index, which greatly simplifies the search.

TYPES OF ILLUSTRATIONS. For all articles, colored illustrations, duotones, paintings, picture-maps, and foldouts are clearly indicated. The usual maps accompanying articles, as well as atlas or other map supplements, are not included, though special pictorial supplements may be. The paintings noted are usually those specially commissioned by the Society to accompany the article, not reproductions of gallery paintings, portraits, and the like. Also, many of the drawings and diagrams noted have elements of paintings, as do the "picture" and "relief" maps.

COLOR NOTE NOW OMITTED FROM 1955. Articles illustrated in black-and-white have become so rare since this index was first compiled that it is now possible to reverse the procedure, noting only a "b" after the date for black-and-white back through 1955, while retaining the "c" note for articles with colored illustrations before 1955 (e.g. the citations Ap50c, D56 and F60 are all to colored illustrations). Today articles with black-and-white illustrations are hardly ever found in the Geographic, except for occasional reproductions of historical photographs for special effects.

For references before 1955, colored illustrations are indicated by a "c" after the date, and where the colored illustrations with their complete and accurate captions are accompanied by another article, the note is "c2". (In earlier years a sequence of colored plates was presented under its own title.) Three articles of which two are in color are marked "c3(2c)." Articles not marked "c" contain as a rule a large number of black-and-white pictures with several pages of text.

Occasionally, as in the Birds entry, the "c" will follow the number of colored pictures (more than two) rather than the number of articles, e.g., Ja74-9c(f) green heron.

ALL ILLUSTRATIONS SINCE JAN. 1955
ARE IN COLOR UNLESS MARKED "b"
AFTER THE DATE. PRIOR TO 1955 ALL
COLOR ILLUSTRATIONS ARE SHOWN BY A "c" AFTER THE DATE.

ISLANDS are indexed individually except for Pacific Islands, Indonesia, West Indies, and a few islands closely associated with mother countries; for example, Jersey, Crete, and Hawaii under England, Greece, and U.S. respectively. Important islands, such as those of the Mediterranean, carry "see" references to the mother country.

CITIES are included in countries or states, sometimes under a subhead as in China, England, and Germany. The long listing of cities under the heading Cities is for aerial views only, as explained in the subheading.

TYPE-FACES FOR HEADINGS AND SUBHEADING. The type-face used for subheadings will indicate the ranking or subordination of subdivisions. Examples of the new arrangement:

SPORTS & RECREATION
Winter Sports
SKIING

PHYSICAL GEOGRAPHY
Climates
TROPICAL RAIN FOREST

ABBREVIATIONS. Extensive use has been made of abbreviations to conserve space. These are usually self-explanatory, but the following are listed for convenience and consistency:

anc = ancient art = article
 Aus = Austria
 Austl = Australia
 av = aerial view
 b = black-and-white
 brf = brief
 c = colored; century
 ca = about
 ch = church
 clo = closeup
 coll = collective
 -d = ed at end of word
 diagr = diagram
 drg = drawing
 duot = duotone
 enl = enlarged
 f (or feat) = feature article on subject
 fdt = foldout page
 feat (or f) = feature article
 Fr = France, French
 -g = ing at end of word
 hi-sp = high-speed photography
 Icel = Iceland
 il = illustration(s) IR = infrared (photography)
 Ire = Ireland
 isl = island(s)
 Isr = Israel
 It = Italy

lg = large
 M = thousand(s)
 mi = mile(s)
 mill = million
 mod = modern
 mpho(s) = microphoto(s)
 ms = manuscript
 mus = museum
 p(or pn) = painting(s); page, as in a 2p spread pic(pix) = picture(s)
 pk = park
 pl = plant
 pn = painting(s) port = portrait
 pt = part(ly)
 r = river
 rd = road
 seq = sequence (of pictures)
 Sp = Spain
 subh = subheading
 var = variety(ies)
 w = with
 x = times (as in "enl 22x")
 x-sec = cross-section
 y = young
 E, W, N, S, SE &c = points of compass
 ' = foot (feet)
 " = inch(es)
 Entry headings may be shortened to initial letter, e.g. N A under Africa means North Africa; pipef under Fish means pipefish

Names of countries are regularly abbreviated. If any of these are not familiar, listings of abbreviations may be found in "Goode's World Atlas" or the "National Geographic Atlas of the World" (just ahead of the index in both books).

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS. In conclusion the compiler would like to thank the few users of the Handy Key who have taken the trouble to write him of errors, suggestions, and criticisms. This interest is most appreciated, and he hopes that such messages will continue to result in improvements. He is also greatly indebted to Hal Leader of Printing Prep Inc. in Buffalo for his advice and cooperation in adapting the Handy Key to a new computerized typesetting system and new type-faces.
